

UCF COLLEGE OF SCIENCES

Distinguished Speaker Series

Presents:

Dr. Anderson is the William K. Lanman Jr. Professor of Sociology at Yale University. He is one of the leading ethnographers in the country. His expertise is in contemporary urban life. The thesis of his latest work, Cosmopolitan Canopy, is that Americans have become more tolerant in their public dealings around race, but at the cost of moving some of the racial animus to quieter, less visible quarters. It is a contested and controversial thesis and Anderson's talk can be expected to create a campus wide conversation about race and modern American life.

Distinguished Speaker Series Issue 5:

"THE COSMOPOLITAN CANOPY"

Elijah Anderson

Faculty Member at Yale University and a leading Ethnographer in the United States

April 9th, 2014

Time: 4:30 PM

UCF Main Campus
Classroom Building 2 (CB2) 375

Sponsored by:
Sociology Department